BLACK PANTHER PARTY, aka Black Panther Party for Self Defense

According to its official newspaper, the Black Panther Party (BPP) was started during December, 1966, in Oakland, California, to organize black people so they can take control of the life, politics, and the destiny of the black community. It was organized by Bobby George Seale, BPP Chairman, and Huey P. Newton, BPP Minister of Defense. Newton is presently serving a sentence of 2 to 15 years on a conviction of manslaughter in connection with the killing of an Oakland police officer.

The official newspaper, "The Black Panther," which further describes itself as the "Black Community News Service," states that the BPP advocates the use of guns and guerrilla tactics in its revolutionary program to end oppression of the black people. Residents of the black community are urged to arm themselves against the police who are consistently referred to in the publication as "pigs" who should be killed.

"The Black Panther" issue of September 7, 1968, contains an editorial by BPP Minister of Education, George Mason Murray, which ends with the following:

"Black men. Black people, colored persons of America, revolt everywhere! Arm yourselves. The only culture worth keeping is a revolutionary culture. Change. Freedom everywhere. Dynamite! Black Power. Use the gun. Kill the pigs everywhere."

Included in the introduction to an article appearing in the October 5, 1968, edition of "The Black Panther" is the statement, "...we will not dissent from American Government. We will overthrow it."

Issues of "The Black Panther" regularly contain quotations from the writings of Chairman MAO Tse-tung of the People's Republic of China and feature MAO's statement that "political power grows out of the barrel of a gun."

The national headquarters of the BPP is located at 3106 Shattuck Avenue, Berkeley, California. Branches have been established at various locations throughout the United States.

It was possible only to make a photocopy of this newspaper when the articles were made available by U. S. Customs, as subject's release on bail appeared imminent. b7D

Since Albany believes that copies of "The Second Front" have been made available to the Bureau by [REDACTED] no leads are being set out covering the material in that typed newspaper. For the information of New York Office, this newspaper, on page 1, shows a grotesque caricature captioned "UNCLE SAM WANTS YOU," underneath which appears, "UNCLE PIG, I QUIT!" The newspaper contains many articles opposing United States involvement in Vietnam and urging United States servicemen to desert. It furnishes information designed to aid deserters to find residence and employment in Canada. There are articles by BILL JONES, Chairman, American Deserters Committee, Sweden; an article by STEVEN KRAUSS, datelined at Paris, France, which indicates he was born 3/12/48, Fitchburg, Mass., entered the U. S. Army in December, 1966, and deserted on 4/23/68; a poem by JAMES PURDY, Stockholm; an article by TERRY WHITMORE of Memphis, Tennessee, who had been in the Marines, an article by ROBERT BRUCE MAC LEOD, US51730039, who deserted from the Army in September, 1968, and several anonymous articles.

The above-described photocopy is enclosed for the Bureau herewith.

Also enclosed for the Bureau is a photocopy of a mimeographed page of instructions in reaching the American Deserters Committee in Montreal; the Montreal Council to Aid War Objectors in Montreal, the Toronto Anti-Draft Programme, Toronto; Aid with Immigration and the Draft, Ottawa, and the Vancouver Committee to Aid War Objectors, Vancouver, B.C., Canada.

HOW TO DESERT

It is best to wait until you get a leave leave. You should try to bring with you the following: birth certificate, passport, diplomas, letters of personal reference, money (as much as you can obtain - Ontario get legally). You should bring any Military diplomas you have as often we find that military skills are most valuable in immigration assessment (e.g. accountants, cooks, etc.).

If you cannot get these papers easily, don't take a chance on getting busted.
Come on up and we can help you send for them by mail.

When you enter the country, you must enter as a VISITOR. Do not show your military ID. Use a driver's license or birth certificate. The border guard may ask you how long you're going to visit. You should give a definite answer (e.g. "a week").
Try to have at least ten dollars for every day you say you'll be visiting. It is good to have up 200---300 dollars to take you over until you get working papers
P.O. But if you can't, don't let that stop you from deserting. By the way if you have a youth fare card, you can fly half-fare to Montreal. From NYC it only cost costs about 13 dollars.

DESERTERS AND CANADA

American military deserters have been safe in Canada for over a year, but this has not been widely known until the recent formation of our group the American Deserters Committee.

Canadian Immigration laws permit Immigration of those who meet their standards regardless of whether or not a person has completed military service.

This applies to those who refuse induction as well as those who have interrupted their military service by leaving the Armed Forces. In short, whatever your relation to the United States Armed Forces, whether you are a draft resister, AWOL or deserter, this will not be held against you or prohibit you from receiving landed immigrant status in Canada.

While there have been no legal changes, recently certain administrative changes have been made which make it more difficult for deserters to immigrate to Canada. Now it is only safe to immigrate internally at Immigration offices within Canada. The policy now is to refuse status at border points and in fact there have been cases of outright collusion between Canadian and American border guards, especially in Quebec province.

However, once a deserter enters the country he will neither be extradited nor deported for his act of desertion. An article in the Montreal daily, THE STAR, reported the policy as follows: "If an American soldier on leave comes to Canada and then decides not to return to his unit he becomes a deserter under American law but this country (Canada) will do nothing to return him to the US authorities. The reason is that to do so would indirectly extend the application of US law into Canada. In the case of this man an application for landed immigrant status would be considered with no reference to the fact that he was an American deserter. If he was eligible to stay in the normal way he could do so."

After arriving in Canada, the deserter should immediately contact the ADC or one of the other anti-draft counseling advice. The standard procedure in Montreal is to go to the Immigration office and make an appointment for an immigration interview. Usually one has to wait 4 to 5 weeks for an appointment. At the interview one must score 50 out of 90 points on the Immigration rating scale (It used to be that one had to score 50 out of 100 but the recent changes rule out 10 pts for pre-arranged employment for which one is eligible for only at the border points). The points are allotted on the following basis:

a) 1 point for every year of schooling up to 20, b) 0 to 15 for personal assessment--how the immigration officer is impressed. Usually one gets at least 5, c) 0 to 15 for job demand--how much the particular occupational field is in need. d) 0 to 10 for occupational skills. This is where military skills such as ambulance driver, medics, etc., come in handy. e) 10 if you are between 18 and 35 f) 5 for speaking and writing English and up to 5 for speaking and writing French, g) 5 for having a relative in Canada who will nominate you, 3 if he won't. h) 0 to 5 depending on the employment situation in the area one intends to settle in. Usually 3 or 4 points are granted for settling in Montreal.

After passing the points test, one must wait for a medical examination and papers before being legally allowed to get a job. Final landed immigrant status may take months to pass through. One will be able to live and work in Canada. Sometimes there are delays in getting working papers.

WHAT IS THE ADC?

The American Deserters Committee is a newly organized group of American migrants to Canada; the majority of whom are men and women who have deserted from their units in response to the Vietnam war and as a protest against racial oppression in the US. Our chief work is twofold: 1) to remain in contact with the peace movement in the US and to urge and assist our fellow servicemen and women to desert to Canada, and 2) to ally ourselves with persons and organizations in Canada who are struggling against the same US sponsored denial of national self-determination.

The ADC helps new deserters with temporary housing, counseling on immigration, immediate needs, etc. The ADC is acting to develop public support for deserters to continue to be allowed to immigrate to Canada and to counter policies that may discriminate against deserters. We have an office at UGEQ (Union Generale des Etudiants de Quebec) and also a center where some of the guys live, and where we have educational programs, dinners, a library, lounge, etc. As a committee we help each other out with our problems as well as operate as a political group.

THE OFFICIAL NEWSPAPER OF THE INTERNATIONAL UNION OF AMERICAN DESERTERS AND DRAFT RESISTERS--CANADIAN EDITION

To Stay or To Split

Many GIs who oppose the Vietnam war often have a tough time deciding whether it's right for them to cut out on the army and go underground in the states, or split to another country.

Up until recently most GIs knew only that deserters could be safe in France and Sweden and because those two countries are so far away, and speak different languages, many guys decided to look it out in the service. They had to resist in the Army. Now this is a hard thing to do because the attitude is the most oppressive of your society, and has a long tradition of punishing people around and treating them like shit. It's a good idea to give out anti-war literature and tap with other servicemen and to organize something. But we know from experience that when you really get effective the brass cracks down.

In cases like that, when you know they are planning to come down on you hard, more and more guys seem to think that the only sensible thing to do is to split. Let's say you get orders to Nam. If you're against the war, if you think it's stupid to risk your life in a dumb war, you say "Gee, why the hell you should let them send you to Nam. If you see it boiling down to a choice be-of the 5th Grade, on the one hand, and the 6th Grade, on the other. The first of these is the 5th Grade, and the second is the 6th Grade.

think it's the truth. Remember is basic training: double time,
show line, right face, left face.
They wanted you disciplined like a well-running machine, easy to control, easy to handle. They gave you a trade and called you a soldier. A soldier: a man to die for a cause they your own, to kill a man they call your enemy. And you believed it: you swallowed the story look, stock, and barrel. And after being so generous, and making you a soldier, they're still ready to do you more favors. They leave you a and feed you, and they give you transportation to the front. Whenever they need you and when you die, they'll pay for your funeral.

Deserters Safe in Canada

Are you or your friends planning to Desert from the US Military Machine? Here is some information we have compiled on guys who have actually done so and who are now living in Canada LEGALLY:

that in applying for "undocumented migrant status" in Canada, you are dealing with a government agency. This means that it is a time-consuming process, sometimes two or three months before final papers come through. The American government is not at all happy with Canada for taking draft resisters and deserters. So of course pressure is being put on the Immigration Department.

Canadian Immigration laws prohibit the immigration of those who are convicted of their standards regardless of whether or not a person has plotted military service. This applies to those who refuse induction as well as those who have interrupted their military service by leaving the Canadian Forces. Whether you are a deserter, AWOL or deserter, you will not be held against you to prohibit you from re-entering the United States as a landed immigrant. Status in Canada is not a requirement for entry into the United States.

pressures on the Immigration Department. Because of this, best thing for you to do is to get Canada as a visitor or 1st and contact the nearest draft group or the American secrets Committee here in India.

There are a certain number of things you must bring with you if possible. Birth certificate to show proof of citizenship. Money, as much as you can legally get legally. High school diploma. If so, then, don't take the risk of getting busted. Come up to the da and mail for the documents you need.

uncle pig. I want!

When entering the military machine in the year of Our Lord 1966 I found a way of life completely different from what I was accustomed to. It was a life of complete fear and confusion. They said they'd make a man out of me and then they taught me how to kill. I couldn't understand why I had to go through all this training in destruction because I was supposed to be a peace copman and save life without discrimination and destroy it.

After my completion of basic training and a short time at Fort Ben Harrison, Texas in what was supposed to be a medical school, although a good amount of our time was spent on inspections, physical conditioning, drill and ceremony, and hand to hand combat, I did learn how to apply bandages and fill out medical forms. A short time after that we were sent to Vietnam. First, stop communist aggression and second, to save lives. After spending a year in the Republic of Vietnam and witnessing American imperialism at its highest level, I was returned home to spend six months in a hospital with hepatitis. It seemed like a dream to me. As I walked out the door I really knew and everything was going to be OK or so, I was told.

It took me the whole time I was in the hospital to learn how to sleep at night and how to eat and how to talk to people again. Sometimes I think if I would not have made it, I've been back a year now and still my mind haunts me---the screams of children being burnt, the look of hungry peasants, the feeling of life slipping out of your hands because you couldn't get to him fast enough. I still hear the cry "MEDIC" at night.

"I remember the doctor coming in my room and saying, 'you're OK now. You can go back to duty.' Then I woke up to the fact that it wasn't over, that I still had to complete my sentence before I could take off that uniform, of which I was not so proud of. Anytime I'd go down to Fort Hood, Texas I went only to find riot control, segregation, prejudice. Wall-to-wall posters and a lot of fucked-up people in total confusion. I spent a month or so down there and watched the Democratic Convention on TV and was told that I was going back to Vietnam. Even though I had six months left and had a medical profile. Could it be that my rap was a little too strong or my friends weren't all white and my fear of the brass had gone and that reality was the name of the game? I was playing and not Army? I'm afraid Uncle Pig will have to find someone else to do his killing for him because I'm OUT! A great man once said, "No kill in war is not a bit better than to commit ordinary murder."

In June 1967, I graduated from High School and, though college was very attractive, the fact that I was of draft age was deterrent. I looked for work, but being between the ages of 18 and 25, an employer would hire me on a permanent basis; therefore, I had the choice of not waiting to be drafted or enlisting and heading into a technical field. I chose to wait the last summer months of 1967 and joined the U.S. Marine Corps with the intention of attending technical school (electronics) and avoiding boot camps of all types. However, I was forced to live and train as an animal. I watched intelligent human beings forced to succumb to one way of thinking and one way only. All who disagreed were humiliated, beaten or brainwashed into submission. I, like most, played along with the system in order to survive in this world of total hostility.

Hostility. I kept playing along with the system, through school, and even after I got to my duty station. However, after observing, talking with, and getting to know people who had returned from Vietnam, I became convinced that I would do my utmost to avoid going overseas. It sickened me to look at 19 and 20 year old kids, old before their time, forced to take part in a war in which very few believe in. For the most part though, it seemed as if I had two choices: go overseas or go to jail. I had almost resigned myself to the first of going overseas, as prison sentences for military are extremely harsh. I was reading in a New York Times about deserters and Canada. A few thousand of mine and I talked over the time for a long time, and decided when we had the sufficient funds, etc., we would split.

In the case of this man, an application for landed immigrant status would be considered with no reference to the fact that he was an American deserter. Quebec province has many advantages for asylum. The first one is that the Canadians do not hold it against you for being a deserter, because the majority of the Canadian people are opposed to the war. Secondly, the location is ideal. Montreal, Quebec is only a mere 40 miles above the border, making available an easily reached haven from the reds and other anti-Americanists.

4. You were down a stage in the main part of town you are sure to encounter many stimulating attributes—such as art galleries, innumerable coffee shops, and of course the main attraction is the beautiful women/girls—whatever you prefer.

The first day I was in Montreal, I went to the student union building at McGill Univ. and sat down at a table where a fantastic chick was manipulating her caterpillars in a school book. I eventually focused my attention on her and directed a comment at her saying, she was working too hard. After talking to her a bit, I discovered that she was not by any means antagonistic to the fact that I was a deserter. In fact, it was as if I were some sort of hero just for the fact that I had certain defined reasons for leaving--I was against the war.

She acquainted me to a friend who was a deserter who had been here for over a year. I talked with him for several hours about the procedures he went through to gain Immigrant Status in Canada. These procedures were rather simple and uncomplicated. The only problem was finding proper counseling before venturing into the immigration bureau. He knew another guy who was in on the making of a deserter group---the ADC---which was getting deserters and draft resisters together to help each other out and to continue to fight against the war. One of the first things is to try and learn some French so as to make it easier to obtain work since the French element of Quebec are more than willing to hire those who are capable of handling the work. Montreal is a good place to live. It's almost like being home except there's more girls and a multitude of things to do and even more rewarding is the knowledge that since I can work so close to the U.S. I can better accomplish the work necessary for social change.

increasing rate of AMOL. I was in the 606 Med. Co. and weekend passes were ready out one day. What a drag. A whole week in a military base servicing troops as in suffering unnecessary casualties. During the summer the troops marched out to RV and the tanks rolled down with equipment and moving at a pace that was not be copied with. My task was to administer artificial resuscitation to almost a fourth of company because of exhaustion or hyperventilation.

The prospects of going to HAM were becoming more evident and the last that I had in mind was going to a place where the chances of making it alive were about 80. Combat medics aren't exactly safe in the midst of crossfire, trying to tend to patients. And when I discover that as this was totally unnecessary and that better things lie outside gates, I walked away from the hospital barracks for the last time watching birds fly like dust in my memory.

REVOLUTIONARY UNION,
ALSO KNOWN AS
RED UNION, BAY AREA
REVOLUTIONARY UNION

In September, 1968, a source advised that the Revolutionary Union, commonly known to its membership as the Red Union (RU), was formed in early 1968 as a covert, revolutionary, Marxist-Leninist organization ideologically oriented toward Communist China, which it views as the model of the correct revolutionary Marxist-Leninist line as developed through MAO Tse-tung. The RU advocates the necessity of violent revolution and open guerrilla warfare to overthrow the existing political system in the United States and effect radical changes in this nation, and some members are collecting firearms, explosives, and other weapons and have engaged in guerrilla warfare and firearms training. In the San Francisco Bay Area, the RU consists of three locals, one each in San Francisco, the East Bay, and the Peninsula.

In April, 1969, a second source advised that the RU partially surfaced during that month through advertisements in select "New Left" periodicals, identifying three members of the Executive Committee as public spokesmen and offering for sale select writings of the RU, including a "Statement of Principles," in the form of "The Red Papers." With the exception of the three publicly identified spokesmen, the general membership of the RU will remain covert; however, individual members are free to reveal their RU membership to close political associates as the necessities of political effectiveness dictate.

The RU's published "Statement of Principles" calls for the smashing of the existing state apparatus by the United States working class and the establishment of communism and the dictatorship of the proletariat; recognizes the necessity of violent revolution and organized armed struggle to achieve those ends and calls for the creation of a revolutionary party based upon Marxism-Leninism as developed through MAO Tse-tung.
